improper but added, "they haven't done any harm."

Selectman Henry Ainslie agreed with Hiltz's rationale that if auxiliary police are uniformed, "they should be in a position to defend themselves." Selectman Arthur Clark said he found the auxiliary police to be well trained.

Auxiliary police - Sgt. Richard Yocum said, "We often respond to an emergency call with regular police officers," pointing to the difficulty an auxiliary officer could encounter without firearm protection.

Selectmen agreed to ask Police Chief Randolph Feola for an updated report on auxiliary police firearm regulations.

Congregational Antique Show Coming To Town Hall In June

The Third Annual Antique Show and Sale sponsored by the Beechwood Congregational Church will be held in Cohasset Town Hall Friday, June 8 from noon to 9 p.m., and Saturday, June 9 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Antiques to everyone's liking will be on display and for sale. It will have something to interest both young and old and in-between. There is ample parking and a snack bar available. This year's show will feature a fish chowder luncheon, sandwiches, coffee and desserts which will be served next door at the Second Congregational Church. Home baked goods will be available at the ticket area. Chairwomen, Mrs. Evelyn Pearson and Mrs. Geraldine Ainslie are in charge of the show.

An authentic replica of a Victorian crazy quilt will be on sale. Lavish embroidery decorates the luxurious bits of material - ribbons, satin, grosgrain, velvet and silk.
